Sadie Hawkins Dance Success, Funny Paper Party Sponsored by Year Round Club To Be Given by A. A.

The annual Sadie Hawkins Dance, sponsored by the Year Round Club, was held Friday, October 25, at 6:45, in the William Bingham Gymnasium.

The committees were as follows: program, Eleanor Gurney, Rachel Bennett; decorations, Lee Carver, Barbara Dougherty; tickets, Lee Nary, Marilyn Boyker; refreshments, Irene Wight, Lois Van; music, Jackie Macfarlane, Rebecca Philbrick.

It was stipulated that all the boys must be given signs, and the night of the dance, some kind of doll or animal. The prizes received for these dolls were these: Stan Cole, most gruesome; Bob Adams, most original; Tim Terry, cutest; Dave Farrington, funniest.

The signs, which began to appear Tuesday and Wednesday, were of all shapes, sizes and descriptions. They ranged from a few words like RESERVED, KEEP OUT, and ALL TIED UP, to a lengthy poem extolling the virtues of Kennebunk. The animals, also, were of all sizes, the largest being Sterling Pierce's dog, and the smallest being a toss-up among two or three pocket-size animals.

Being a Sadie Hawkins Dance, the initiative was given to the girls. Reversed from the usual procedures, the girls asked the boys, calling for them at their homes or the dorm, secured the refreshments, and exchanged the dances.

The festivities began with a grand march, followed by various other dances, including an elimination won by Mr. Scott and Miss Collins.

The hilarity of the evening was manifested greatly when Mr. and Mrs. Jack Libby (nee Dave Patrick) arrived, fashionably late. Mr. Libby was immaculately dressed in evening clothes, while Mrs. Libby wore the latest creations, complete with orange lipstick, bobby socks, and an umbrella. After a few dances the happy couple bade their friends goodnight and made a graceful exit.

Music was supplied by Art Gogan's band, of Dixfield. No boys were allowed stag, but many sat in the balcony. Refreshments of cider and doughnuts were served at intermission.

SOPHOMORE PARTY

On Friday evening, November 1, the Sophomore Class party was held in the William Bingham Gym. The party began at eight o'clock following the regular Friday night dance. After a few games, cider and doughnuts were served. Then the sophomores continued with square dances, which were greeted with enthusiasm. The evening was concluded with dancing.

A committee for the party had been organized and entertainment and refreshments had been planned a short time before. The party itself went off

MUMPS STRIKE GOULD

Oct. 27, 1946 — Mumps, the dreaded plague, strikes again on the twenty-first day of the incubation period. This terrible disease fell upon its first victim in the wee small hours of Monday morning. Jessie Jones, unfortunate Gehringite, grasping books and stationery was soon seen wending her unhappy way to the infirmary. She, having first choice of the well-known spacious rooms, chose the room with the view and suddenly found herself lonesome. This condition, however, was soon remedied by the arrival of Ruth Judkins the next day.

Anxiety grew; concerned Gehringites, clutching their throats and probing glands, were seen staring into every available mirror. The prevailing $64 question was, "Have you had the mumps?" If a negative answer was given, a look of condescending pity would creep across the face of the questioner, who would go away saying, "You'll be sorry!"

In the infirmary rooms above Ruthie and Jessie found the boredom unbearable so Gerry Linnell, taking pity upon them, persuaded herself that she also had the mumps and joined them. Three days were enough. Gerry, on Friday, again made her debut into Society.

Now worried Gehringites, patiently waiting for the next twenty one days to pass, are pondering upon the question, "Why doesn't anyone in Holden Hall come down with the mumps?"

well in spite of the fact that it was formed on the spur of the moment.

Parents' Day Enjoyed In Spite of Rain

Gould's annual Parents' Day was held this year on Saturday, the twelfth of September. Although the weather was very poor, a large number of parents both old and new, came. Parents' Day has long been a Gould tradition, and it offers an opportunity for parents who have never been here before to see the campus and the buildings; to the parents who have visited here before it offers a chance to see the improvements and innovations on the campus. Although the dormitory did not offer any meals to the parents due to the food situation, a tea was held for the parents and visiting alumni in the headmaster's home.

The game between Hebron Academy and Gould, rivals who have not played each other in football for quite a few years, was the main feature of this Parent's Day. In spite of the rain a good many parents attended the game. The entire student body of Hebron attended the game and watched their team, although pressed hard by our team, win the game 12-7.

After the game while the parents were attending the tea at the home of Mr. Ireland, a tea dance was held in the William Bingham Gymnasium for the students and Hebron football team.

This year's Parents' Day attracted more parents than others have for several years. Among the large number from Maine were Rev. and Mrs. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Waterman, Mr. and Mrs. Crockett, Mr. and

COMMUNITY CONCERTS

Many Gould Academy students went on October 24 to the first Community Concert of the series in Lewiston. This concert, given by Yehudi Menuhin, a world famous violinist, was sponsored by Community Concerts Association of Lewiston, and all those holding Community Concert tickets of any city or town were entitled to attend. The group from Gould, holding tickets of the Rumford Association, will go to the Rumford series and can also go to concerts in other towns if there is seating at that town's concert.

The Menuhin concert was given in the Lewiston Armory and was a great success, many people having to stand through out the entire concert. The Rumford concert series, to be given in the High School is scheduled to begin soon with the first concert on November twenty-first. Nadine Connors, a soprano, is the first soloist; later in the season Randolph Hokansen, pianist, and the Barry Ensemble, a group playing violin, cello, flute and piano, will be presented by the Rumford Association.

TEACHERS' CONVENTIONS

The Oxford County Teachers' Convention met at Gould on October 11. Nearly two hundred came to attend the clinics and admire Gould's campus. The morning program consisted of numbers by several of Miss Griggs' musical clubs. In the afternoon the boys' gym classes, under the direction of Mr. Roderick displayed their skill in tumbling and pyramid building.

Following this were clinics, where the most outstanding

The Girls' A. A. Party is going to be held on Saturday, November 23, at seven thirty o'clock in the Girls' gym. The girls of the A. A. are sponsoring it as usual, and, as usual, all are promised a lot of fun.

The Council, under its president, Barbara Galbraith, has been considering what kind of party they will have this year and have finally decided on a funny paper party. It is going to be based on the comics and everyone is to come dressed as their favorite comic strip character, or as nearly like it as possible. If it is not possible to make the exact character come to life, everyone is expected to wear something to let the others know which one he is.

The party will be run the same way it always has been with the different booths and games in which the players are scored. Prizes will be awarded to the highest boy and girl scorer of the night.

After the games in the booths are over there will be a few games in which all participate. Then the class skits, for which prizes are also awarded, will take place. After that the evening will end up with a little dancing.

Mary Plumer is in charge of the decorations which will follow the theme of the party. Favorite comic characters, almost life size, will have places of honor in the gym.

CHAPMAN CLUB CONCERT

The Chapman Club is putting on their first concert of the year Friday, November 8, at 8:00 in the William Bingham Gym.

The club has new talent this year; Grace Lenfest is a newcomer to the organization as a harpist. It is the first time that Gould has had a harpist in its midst.

Most of the numbers that have been selected by the members are by modern composers.

Jerry Davis is playing the popular "Deep Purple" by Peter de Rose. Virginia Potter and Roy Lurvey are singing "I'll See You Again" from "Bittersweet," composed by Noel Coward. Then there will be a two-piece number played by Frances Vinton and her father, who are going to play "Maleguena" by E. Lucone. The two Penners and Lois Van are undecided as to the number for their flute trio. Also Grace Lenfest has not decided what she will play. Donald Lord and Quentin Hall will play in a trumpet duet, "Sails on a Silvery Sea." Roy Lurvey is playing "Concertino" in a clarinet solo; in a piano solo Florence Pike is playing "Romance" by Bebelious. Myra Stickney and Miss Collins, in a violin duet, will play "Concerto in D Minor" by Bach. The Club is hoping that Jessie Jones will sing "Nocturne" by Pearl Curren. To end the program all the Chapman Club members are participating in the last number, "One World" by Geoffrey O'Hara.

EDITORIAL

Your BLUE AND GOLD

We of the editorial staff have been confronted many times since the last issue by those who favor a "lighter touch" in the content of THE BLUE AND GOLD. Since this paper is a product of many long grueling hours of work, both of and for the students, it seems advisable that we explain our policy at this time.

The chief criticism with which we have met is that THE BLUE AND GOLD doesn't contain enough interesting columns about the students themselves. Many request the return of the gossip columns which were discontinued over a year ago. These, however, are not good taste and, we feel that THE BLUE AND GOLD is not the place for boy meets girl matter. The "light touch" is the hardest type of article to write. A great deal of praise is due to the writers of "Off the Record" and "Under the Cupola," our two articles of this type. If any one of the student body will write a good, interesting, and entertaining article with the "light touch", without boy meets girl matter, we will print it. There is always space for this sort of writing.

"How about new regular columns?" you ask. A possible addition to our editorial pages could be "Letters to the Editor," but that is up to you, the students. We will print all constructive ideas submitted to us. If we receive any response to this editorial, and if answers from the student body are received, we will start a new column, "Letters to the Editor."

THE BLUE AND GOLD is also a record of school events. This, too, is a criticism of the paper, but the student body comprises less than half of the entire circulation. Therefore, while it is solely a student activity, the paper depends greatly upon its circulation among alumni and others outside Gould who are interested in our activities. Because of this we must print a great deal of news articles in order to keep up interest in those outside of Gould, and therefore, keep up our circulation.

This is your paper and we are open to all constructive ideas and will print the same.

Opinions Appreciated

There has been some talk about having a new kind of column in Blue and Gold. A lot of people feel that it could make use of some variety, and that some of the present articles could be done away with, in a few issues anyhow. It has been suggested that certain columns appear in alternate issues, with new ones filling in the gaps, but nothing definite has been decided on.

A gossip column has been suggested by many students, their minds skipping happily to seeing their names in print, linked with some big man, or gal, on campus. The authorities, when questioned about the practicability of this, open wide their eyes in horror, and tell the questioner about the Blue and Gold standards, and the impropriety of a "he meets she" column, which might soon degenerate to stock phrases with certain names inserted in blank spots.

The defenders of the idea say that a high standard could easily be maintained and it wouldn't be all boy-meets-girl information but points of interest to both town and dormitory students.

There are other ideas that could also be put to practical use, and here's what happened when a few people were asked for their opinions:

Jeannie Crooker grinned very brightly, and suggested a fashion column which the girls of G. A. could consult as to what the well-dressed American girl is wearing this season.

Holding up two fingers, Mark Rines promptly suggested columns about the goings on in the two dorms. Seems he wants to keep track of the girls' activities.

Van Durham, opening her eyes as wide as they would go, wanted an advice column on how to keep off restrictions. She hasn't decided yet just who could write it!

Vaughn Cole wanted some jokes—and then he added, "Good jokes."

Jo Hill laughed wickedly and yelled, "One with plenty of dirt."

Roy Lurvey thought a long time and finally donated, "an article on how to make the best of study periods!"

teachers of the county in English, physics, and chemistry lectured on topics pertinent to the subject. Of special interest to Gould was the fact that Mr. Emery was head of the chemistry clinic. His lecture was on the topic of atomic power.

Two weeks later on October 25, the Maine State Teachers' Convention was held in Bangor. Mr. Ireland, Mr. Vachon, Mr. Thompson, Mr. Fossett, and Mrs. Goggin ably represented Gould. After the English clinic, for which the Gould teachers went especially, Mr. Ireland, who lived in Bangor for many years, led the Gould teachers on a sightseeing tour.

The Headmaster's Corner

Probably the most difficult balancing act of all times is now being carried on in the minds of people today with the desires for individual liberties with its attendant responsibilities on one hand and enforced regulations which are recognized as beneficial to the whole community on the other.

Gould Academy has its standards and regulations which are those recognized and accepted by cultured and well-disciplined homes where self-restraint, self-sacrifice and a willingness to serve the good of the whole rather than the individual are the accepted ways.

The Headmaster and faculty must of necessity act in the capacity of parents at all times whenever a boy or girl is attending school or its activities and thus expect conduct which would not bring embarrassment to you or your parents if your own parents were present.

Another measure of our conduct should be for us all to realize just what would be the result if everyone did what we alone are doing.

Under the Cupola

Last Thursday evening Halloween reared its ugly head—ugly, that is, for the owners of windows, fences, and other loose objects. But we had a really fine time, together with all the other little children who looked forward to some harmless fun. Masses of boisterous juveniles practiced the gentle arts of snitching, flitching and obscure felony. With the fall of dusk came those seeking individuals who aspired to increase their collection of rare signs. That KEEP OFF one by the boys' dorm as well as numerous NO PARKING signs were highjacked before dawn's early light on Friday morn. Dottie Judkins had her eye on the fence between the Restaurant and the Post Office building, but even with a couple of husky football boys it proved to be no cinch to uproot!

Has anyone seen Dick Day's missing chemistry equipment? It seems the foolish boy turned his back a moment in the laboratory. May we suggest a definite search of lockers 6 and 8? Stan Cole and Russell Cram have a knack for receiving homeless Bunsen burners and stray test tubes.

Did anyone miss the Sadie Hawkins Dance last Friday night? It would have done your old heart good to have seen such energetic people strewing hay and jack-o-lanterns over the gym floor. But those chairs that stick together are a personal curse from the powers that be! Oh, for the life of a janitor! Becky Philbrick and Barbara Dougherty had the swell idea of using the nice white towels to clean dirty lanterns, but it ended as we knew it would with tender loving hands washing them at home. Did someone complain about the slippery floor? Ungrateful wretch! But a skid on one's chassis would make a Mr. Milquetoast of Emily Post. The general plan was to extinguish all lights 'cept the lanterns for the last dance. But Mr. Scott guarded the switch like a bobby guards the crown jewels and all was pure and bright. Everything went off super, and thanks to the Year Round Club and Mr. Hawthorne for sponsoring the party!

ATTORNEY AT LAW

Cuba's trial seems to be quite interesting! However, the one following his will prove even more exciting. Although Cuba was charged with many offenses he was saved by the defense attorney Dwinchle O'Day. It seems that some of the vets were on Cuba's side. Even Judge Libby was in favor of him, even though he has made many slanders against Kennebunk. I guess Teddy isn't too mad for being kicked out of Physics class on account of Cuba, since she wouldn't sign the papers for Dymont. Oh, to understand women! They can't get along with you, and they can't get along without you. We live and learn! (?) Poor Cuba! They even held it against her for being born. That's all for now folks. Keep posted for the next up to the minute news on the trial of "Mudrose Cuba."

Speaking of gym, the senior girls have learned their lesson, now. They don't plan to skip any more gym classes. It's great sport running around the hockey field for two or three times in succession.

If you really want to hear a good version of Doing What Comes Naturally, you should have heard the teachers singing it in Gehring Hall Halloween night. Cider and cookies were served afterwards. Perhaps they thought the girls wouldn't make so much noise after lights if they gave them a good time before. They certainly did have a good time tearing the beds apart and marking up the mirrors. It was like a regular treasure hunt, searching down in the cellars for the bedding. Everyone must have had a wonderful time

Richard Day

Richard Day, popular president of this year's senior class has been at Gould for three years. During these past years he has served the school in many organizations.

Dick was born in Kennebunk, Maine and has been a very patriotic citizen of that town. As all who know him will readily testify, Kennebunk is one of his favorite topics of conversation along with food and guns.

Dick has been president of his class during both his junior and senior years. He is a member of the Varsity Glee Club, Boys' Glee Club, and the Choir. Last year he was vice-president of the Outing Club. Due to sickness he was unable to prove his ability as an actor in the one act plays, but proof of this ability was shown by his part in the class skits earlier in the year. Because of Dick's reputation as a connoisseur of food he has been made head of many refreshment committees. Dick has also made quite a name for himself as a football player during his stay at Gould.

Dick's favorite hobby is collecting all sorts of guns. It is because of this that he has become known to many as "Minnieball." He is also very interested in hunting.

If the Marines don't get him first, Dick plans to go to Bowdoin.

HUSKIES HELD TO 6-6 TIE

Oct. 26.—The Blue and Gold gridsters were completely surprised by a hard fighting Fryeburg Academy eleven which held them to a 6-6 tie.

The Huskies were inside the visitors 15 yard line many times during the first part of the game, but failed to have the punch necessary to score.

Fryeburg drew first blood, scoring on a line buck by Byron in the third quarter. Gould came back strong, driving deep into Fryeburg territory, with Blackadar scoring on a line buck from the one foot line. Parsons failed to convert and the score remained tied.

Gould drove down the field to the Fryeburg 15 but was stopped by a pass interception as the horn blew ending the game. The Gould team seemed to lack the drive which they have had in their previous games; their passing was also noticeably bad.

HEBRON TRIPS HUSKIES

Oct. 12.—The Gould eleven suffered its first defeat of the season at the hands of a large, experienced Hebron Academy eleven. The Huskies set up both of Hebron's touchdowns by fumbling on delayed reverse plays deep in their own territory.

Hebron recovered the first fumble in the first period on the Blue and Gold 15 yard line and quickly scored on a pass play. Wood then recovered a Hebron fumble on their thirty and the team drove down the field, McGlynn scoring on a faunt around the end to tie it up.

The second fatal fumble was recovered on the Husky five yard line late in the final period. Hebron scored three plays later, going over on a line buck from the one-foot line.

Although the weather was bad, the team made a fine showing; they played excellent ball giving the large Parent's Day crowd a chance to see two good teams in action.

GOULD GRIDSTERS ROMP OVER SOUTH PARIS

The Huskies journeyed to Paris and easily defeated the Cardinals by a score of 32-12. The over-awed and outclassed Cardinals gave up two touchdowns in the first quarter. Davis ran the first one over and threw a pass to Cram for the second. Gould scored twice before the half ended.

Paris never advanced the ball beyond the fifty yard line in the first half.

The Cardinals showed some scrap in the second half scoring twice against the Gould reserves. Gould came back to score once more in the last period.

Both teams showed a good passing attack. Jerry Davis played his best game of the year, running and passing well. The Gould line also showed up well with Giles, Walker, and Cram doing a fine job.

HUSKIES NIP FARMINGTON

Oct. 5.—The Gould gridsters journeyed to Farmington, and downed a light but well-coached Farmington eleven by the close score of 20-13. Gould intercepted two Farmington passes in the opening quarter and quickly converted them into touchdowns on long runs by Croteau, Blackadar, and Davis. Parsons split the uprights giving Gould a 14-0 margin at the end of the first quarter.

Farmington fought back hard scoring on a flat pass from Gray to Morrill in the second period and once again on a 40 yard dash by Green on the fourth period.

Gould scored in the fourth period on a line buck by Davis to end the game, giving Gould its third straight win.
